

Teleconference - September 14, 2006

Compliance...Not just for DBAs

- Data compliance issues...who in your organization is ultimately responsible? How can they determine who did what to your data...and when?
- Where and how do DBAs play?
- You now are regulated to maintain volumes of data...how do you do it, but still be able to access it when needed?
- Are developers in your organization using production data for testing purposes? Is that data sensitive? How do you protect the data, but provide valid test scenarios?
- Encrypting data...where does it fit?

IBM® DB2® Audit Management Expert, DB2 Data Archive Expert, DB2 Test Database Generator and Encryption for IMS™ and DB2 Databases for z/OS®.

Attend "Compliance...Not Just for DBAs," a teleconference which is packed with important information for not only DBAs, but also Auditors and Compliance and Security Administrators responsible for adherence to regulations in their company.

Teleconference

Compliance comes in many flavors and as you know, is forever evolving. One minute compliance dates are set...the next they have been moved into the future...then back again. But it is always about protecting data...customer financials, health records, personal information...the list goes on.

Join us to learn how to be proactive when it comes to compliance. Whether it be auditing, archiving, encryption and/or masking...it is all about protecting your most valuable assets...your data.

Speakers:

Elaine Morelli – Certified Technical Sales Specialist - DB2 Tools for z/OS and OS/390®.
Ernest Mancill - Certified Technical Sales Specialist - DB2 Tools for z/OS and OS/390.
